Governors Stratton and Craig Join In Dedication of Two Bridges

Government and civic leaders from Indiana and Illinois—headed by Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana and Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois—joined with hundreds of other citizens from the two states Saturday to dedicate and open to traffic new bridges across the Big and Little Wabash rivers.

The main structure, the Wabash River Memorial Bridge, crosses the Big Wabash river midway between New Haven, Ill., and Mt. Vernon, Ind. The bridge across the Little Wabash is at New Haven. The two bridges are connected by state highway 141, constructed at an average height of 35 feet above the river bottoms, to make the road and bridges usable even during flood stages of the rivers.

Following a parade Saturday afternoon, formal dedication ceremonies and a ribbon cutting program were held on the court house square in Mt. Vernon.

Miss Margery Ellen Craig, daughter of Gov. Craig and Mrs. Craig of Indiana, officially cut the ribbon, assisted by Philip Jones, son of State Senator Glen O. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Raleigh.

Following the ceremony in Mt. Vernon, featured by speeches by both governors, mayors of cities in the area and others, there was a short ceremony at the bridge.

Gov. Stratton, speaking during the ceremony, predicted the structure "will aid the economic progress of southern Illinois as well as southern Indiana."

"The people of Illinois are proud to join their neighbors from the state of Indiana in making this new bridge possible for a direct route between the southern portions of both states," Governor Stratton said.

The bridge was constructed by the Indiana Toll Bridge Commission. The state of Illinois built approaches from the Illinois side to the structure. The cost of Illinois' share of the project was $2,647,539.

"Construction on the Illinois approaches to the bridge began in July 1955," Governor Stratton said. "Included in the work was more than six miles of grading, one of the largest grading jobs ever awarded by the Illinois Division of Highways."

"Director Edwin A. Rosenstone of the Department of Public Works and Buildings has informed me that the grading contract included the requirement for the moving of 2,500,000 cubic yards of fill for the roadway. In order to complete this work contractors used 65 units of grading equipment and moved 50,000 cubic yards of earth per day."

Governor Stratton said the new bridge spans the Wabash river which "only a little more than 100 years ago was a main spur on the then super transportation system of that era—the Ohio river—which was the main line from the east to the middle west."

Springfield Fire Roars Through Seven Buildings

SPRINGFIELD (U)—Fire roared through seven buildings in downtown Springfield early today, caused an estimated $750,000 to $1,000,000 damage and routed about 30 persons from second story apartments.

One fireman was overcome by smoke while fighting the blaze from a rooftop and was hospitalized.

Firemen had the blaze under control as dawn arrived. But clouds of black smoke still poured from the buildings, only a block away from the historic Sangamon County courthouse, former state Capitol where "Abraham Lincoln served as a legislator."

Fire officials estimated the damage and said they would not "break it down" to a figure for each building pending insurance investigators' reports.

The fire hit a food chain store, a drug store, bakery shop, dance studio, restaurant, dime store and mail order catalogue office.

Interiors of the restaurant, bakery shop, food store and dime store were completely burned out.

Traffic was blocked off for an entire square block as firemen fought the blaze.

The vote was 300-15. The city will own and operate the system, buying the natural gas from a pipeline company.

Earthquake Hits Two Greek Isles; Report 40 Dead

Touches Off Tidal Waves; Dormant Volcano Erupts

ATHENS, Greece (U)—A sharp earthquake spread death and destruction across two Greek islands in the Aegean Sea today. It touched off tidal waves and stirred a long-dormant volcano into fiery eruption.

At least 40 persons were officially reported killed.

These included 30 dead on Thera (Santorin), a 3-by-12-mile crescent-shaped island about 150 miles southeast of Athens. Another 10 were reported killed on the small island of Ios to the north. In addition, there "many" were reported injured.

A 12-foot tidal wave hit the nearby island of Kalymnos. It smashed fishing boats and wrecked port facilities. The island is 12 miles long and six miles wide.

Casualties on Kalymnos were not reported immediately.

Greek officials termed the earthquake a major catastrophe. It was the strongest to hit Greece since 1953 when more than 400 persons died in the Ionian islands.

Earth tremors were reported along the Aegean coast of Turkey, but no casualty or damage reports were received.

The quake stirred Mt. Elias on Thera into activity, intensifying the plight of the stricken survivors.

The quake sent a tidal wave rolling to within a few miles of Piraeus, Athens' port city.

The volcano on Thera blackened the sky and hampered helicopter pilots seeking a close view of the destruction. Communications were cut by the shock.

The pilots reported hardly a house on the island escaped damage. Three villages were virtually wiped out, they reported.

The shock jolted the island at 9:15 p. m. CST Sunday. Lesser tremors followed.

Thera or Santorin is the southernmost island of the Cyclades. It forms part of a submerged volcanic crater.

WEEPS FOR KIDNAPED SON — Mrs. Morris Weinberger, whose one month old son Peter was kidnapped from their Westbury, Long Island, home, weeps in the arms of Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell after breaking down during a broadcast at Mineola, N. Y. Mrs. Weinberger was reading a prepared statement to TV and movie cameramen and still photographers when she collapsed. In her statement, she said she wanted her baby back, and would cooperate "in any way" to satisfy the kidnaper's $2,000 ransom demand. (NEA Telephoto)

Two Men Admit Phone Call to Mother of Kidnaped Infant Son

NEW YORK (U)—Two men have confessed they made a phone call which led Mrs. Betty Weinberger to a rendezvous at which she thought she might regain her kidnapped infant son, police said today.

They were quoted as telling police they had made the call during an evening of drinking because "we just wanted to see the cops run around."

The telephone call, at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, led Mrs. Weinberger to drive from her suburban home to a lonely street corner in New York carrying the $5,000 demanded for the return of her 37-day-old son, Peter. She sat in the car for more than an hour before she gave up and returned home.

The men later made three more telephone calls from bars and drug store, to the Weinberger house in Westbury, police said.

The men were identified as Robert Giebler, 26, Jackson Heights, Queens, whose wife is expecting their fourth child, and Gordon Thomas Rowell, 24, Woodside, Queens.

Police said the men had confessed asking for the $5,000 ransom demanded earlier for the child but claimed "we weren't interested in the money."

Vigil Near Subway

Mrs. Weinberger kept her lonely wait 10 to 15 blocks from the area from which the men telephoned. Police said it was "close by" a subway station she had entered Friday on a previous unsuccessful attempt to meet the person who kidnapped her son, then 4 weeks old, on July 4.

There was no immediate indication that the men in custody had made the telephone calls which led to the attempted contact Friday.

Detective Inspector Raymond V. Martin said it had not been decided yet whether the men would be booked in Queens County, where they were arrested, or in adjoining Nassau County, in which the Weinbergers live.

He said specific charges to be placed against them were undecided.

A third man taken into custody with the two apparently was not to be booked. Police said John Andrews, who gave his address as the Sloan House YMCA in Manhattan, insisted he had met the other two in a bar about midnight and simply bought them a drink.

"I always do that when I'm drinking," he was reported to have said. "I don't know how I got involved in this."

Police said Andrews said he had a wife, from whom he was separated, and three children in California.

Police apparently discounted any possibility that the men had any part in the actual kidnapping, but officers refused to state flatly that they were absolved.

Disclosure of what seemingly was a cruel, drunken prank dashed hopes that the kidnaper still was attempting to deal with the family or was willing or able to return the stolen infant.

Woman is Killed In Traffic Accident Near Mount Vernon

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (U)—An inquest will be held this afternoon into the death of a 20-year-old woman in a traffic accident.

Dolly Mae Wilkey was killed Sunday morning when the car she was riding in skidded 300 feet along U. S. 460 and hit a utility pole west of here. The driver of the car, Gerald Jenkins, 23, Mount Vernon, and three other men riding in the car were injured.

Tax Fraud Trial Judge is Found Fatally Shot

ST. LOUIS (U)—A coroner's jury today reported an open verdict in the death of Federal Judge Ruben M. Hulen who was found mortally wounded in the yard of his home Saturday.

The jury said it was unable to determine whether Hulen's death was accidental or suicide.

Hulen was found unconscious, with a bullet wound from a .32 caliber pistol in his right temple.

The jury reported its verdict after hearing a psychiatrist, Dr. James N. Haddock, testify Hulen had been a patient of his since last September.

Haddock said Hulen, age 62, had come to him for treatment once every two weeks. The psychiatrist said Hulen was depressed, suffered from insomnia and was "quite nervous." He said patients suffering from such conditions have suicidal tendencies.

Mrs. Hulen, present at the inquest, was not called as a witness. Hulen died on the operating table at Barnes hospital four hours after he was shot in the right temple.

He was unable to make a statement before he died.

Clayton officers who investigated the case said there was no evidence of foul play. The pistol the judge used was found at his feet.

Hulen presided at the trial of Matthew J. Connelly, appointments secretary to former President Harry S. Truman and T. Lamar Caudle, former chief of the Justice Department's tax division. Both men were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government in a tax case.

Hulen had set July 19 as the date to impose sentence and hear defense motions for a new trial.

Legal authorities expressed belief that a judge appointed from another district will pass sentence on Connelly and Caudle.

Hulen's body was found by a gardener near a woodpile where he occasionally shot target practice. The gardener told police he heard a single shot about 20 minutes before he found the body.

After this week a drive will be made to collect all delinquent licenses due the city of Harrisburg.

Starting Monday, July 16, tickets will be issued to all those who have not purchased their city licenses, which have been due since May 1, Chief of Police Ross Lane has announced.

This applies to automobile and all other city licenses required by ordinance.

Demands Mount for Removal of Glenview Air Base Following Collision of Jets

GLENVIEW, Ill. (U)—Demands for the removal of Glenview Naval Air Base mounted today as a Navy board of inquiry began investigating a collision of two jet fighters.

The two Marine Cougar jets collided Saturday, sending one plane crashing in flames near several homes. The pilot, 1st Lt. George W. Crane, 27, Chicago, was killed. The second pilot, Maj. Max E. Olinger, 33, Grand Rapids, Mich., was able to nurse his crippled plane back to base.

Crane was the son of a prominent psychologist, Northwestern University professor and syndicated columnist.

A member of the Glenview Citizens Navy Air Station Action Committee said a special public mass meeting might be called to strengthen efforts to have the air base moved to a less populated area.

"There's no doubt that this latest crash will solidify public sentiment already existing that the base should be moved," said Arthur R. Seder Jr., a member of the committee.

Cmdr. B. G. Preston, acting station commander, took a different view. Preston said the Navy had no intention of moving the base or reducing operations because of public protests.

"If we moved the base 25 or 50 miles, we would probably lose half of our effectiveness," he said.

Says Full Scale Investigation Is Justified

Discloses Most Of Checks Cashed Through Chicago Bank

SPRINGFIELD (U)—State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon announced today he will seek a grand jury investigation "at the earliest available date" of "possible misappropriation of funds" in the office of State Auditor Orville E. Hodge.

Coutrakon said an investigation conducted by his office turned up evidence "sufficient to justify a full scale grand jury investigation."

He also disclosed for the first time that "most" of a number of state checks issued by Hodge's office under "suspicious" circumstances were cashed through the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Chicago.

The bank holds a mortgage on Hodge's Lake Springfield home.

Coutrakon said in addition to some 21 checks already mentioned in newspaper reports on Hodge's office, his assistant, J. Waldo Ackerman Jr., had been unable to locate "hundreds" of state checks issued by the auditor's office for a total of "several hundred thousand dollars."

Some Missing Checks

Coutrakon told a news conference he will meet with Hodge and officials of the Southmoor bank this week to seek an explanation of the "questionable" checks.

A Chicago newspaper (The Daily News) has reported that in investigating 15 checks for a total of about $180,000 issued by Hodge's office, it found seven of the persons and firms to whom the checks were made out denied they ever received the money.

The newspaper said only one of the 15 said he did receive the money.

Coutrakon said he would ask Circuit Judge De Witt S. Crow today to reconvene the May grand jury. He said he wanted "several weeks" to investigate the case further and issue subpoenas, but that the investigation could possibly start by the end of this month.

"We want to get to the bottom of this," Coutrakon said. "Evidence thus far uncovered . . . includes several hundred thousand dollars in cancelled state warrants which apparently cannot be located in the auditor's files, but which fortunately were microfilmed by the state treasurer's office and made available for inspection to the state's attorney's office."

Coutrakon said these warrants (checks) were "in addition to those heretofore reported in the press."

Ackerman said the missing checks and those reported by the newspaper had a total value of about "half a million dollars."

He said he had personally looked for the missing checks and found "hundreds" of them missing, including one "half drawer" of them in the auditor's files.

Endorsed on Typewriter

Coutrakon said "it appears that a substantial portion of these warrants were never received by the payees, but were cashed by other persons at the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, under obviously suspicious circumstances which the public is entitled to have explained."

"We want to find out who authorized these warrants, who made them out and who cashed them," Coutrakon said.

Ackerman said most of the checks in question were "endorsed on a typewriter."

Coutrakon said "this is a thing of great magnitude, and I don't know if we'll ever uncover everything."

He said he "can't say yet" whether Hodge himself will be subpoenaed in the grand jury investigation, but that "I hope to talk to him today."

The president of the Southmoor bank is Edward Hintz.

Meanwhile, State Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph) chairman of the State Budgetary Commission, arrived here to discuss with Gov. William G. Stratton plans for an investigation of Hodge's office by the commission.

Hodge's office said the auditor was believed in Springfield, but was not immediately available for comment.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people. Deuteronomy 4:6.

It always has taken inspired leadership to direct nations. Where there is no vision the people perish. That is true today as it was three thousand years ago. We should pray for those in authority, they need our prayers.

Novelty and Monotony

With warmth finally creeping over the land, one may be forgiven a peek or two at the major league baseball standings. It seems hard to believe they've been playing this spring, but they have.

In the National League the vaunted world champion Brooklyn Dodgers are mired down in the middle of the standings. On top are the Milwaukee Braves, heretofore often bridesmaids but never brides. Since baseball is a way of life in Milwaukee, things might be interesting if the Braves could say up there.

To look at those chasing the Braves, one would think last year's standings had simply been turned upside down. The St. Louis Cardinals, the once forlorn Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds are all stepping along at a good clip. It's refreshing to find prosperity touching the cheeks of the pallid.

Over in the American League, however, it's the same old story: the New York Yankees. The season isn't two months old, but the Yanks already have put several lengths of open water between themselves and their nearest competitors.

At this writing it would be a rash man who would predict that anybody is going to make trouble for the New Yorkers, who have won six pennants in the last seven years.

If August rolls around and they're still way out front, a few turnstiles here and there may grow rusty. People like to be surprised, and the Yanks are no surprise.

DREW PEARSON says: Stalin will be blamed for Katyn Forest Massacre.

WASHINGTON. — Ex-President Truman, just back from Europe, has promised Democrats that he'll wage his usual "give-'em-hell" campaign against the Republicans this year. . . . Pennsylvania Democrats may have hit on a way to counteract the big money going into GOP campaign coffers. In Lancaster, they have organized "Dues for Democracy," a plan whereby people donate a buck a month for five months—payable the first of the month. . . . the tremendous amounts of money flowing into such states as Oregon to elect "Generous Doug" McKay make Democratic money-raising efforts look puny. Sen. Wayne Morse, running against McKay, has a nickel to spend as against every $10 for McKay. . . . Ex-Gov. Tom Dewey has told friends flatly he will not run for the Senate. He couldn't stand being junior to New York's Sen. Irving Ives. . . . Adlai Stevenson has told aides if he wins the nomination he will replace Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler with his own campaign manager, James Finnegan of Philadelphia.

CAPITAL NEWS CAPSULES

Morc Murders For Stalin — The next big bombshell expected in Poland will be a formal admission by Soviet leaders that Stalin and not the Nazis was responsible for the brutal Katyn forest massacre of Polish war prisoners. . . . This confession is reportedly being prepared as a further move to destroy the last vestiges of Stalin's reputation. . . . Stalin will be blamed as personally responsible for the massacre of not only the 15,000 Polish officers who were massacred in 1943 but the death of some 30,000 others whose graves never have been found.

Nix On Nasser — Admiral Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has urged the State Department to cut off all aid to Egypt. Radford especially wants to cancel the big loan and grant which the United States offered Egypt to build the world's biggest dam on the Nile river. . . . Premier Nasser of Egypt, Radford warns, has nuzzled up so close to Russia that he is virtually a Communist with dangerous delusions of grandeur. The American money that is to go to Egypt, he says, would be far better spent in Pakistan and Iran, two countries firmly on the American side in the cold war.

Turnmoil Among Communists — Italy's Communist Boss Palmiro Togliatti is directing the European Communist parties in their denunciation of the present leadership of the Kremlin. This is part of a desperate effort to save his own neck. Togliatti, who is the elder statesman of European communism, has succeeded in surviving so far. But West European Communists are bitter over the fact that Italian, French, and other Communist leaders did nothing to expose Stalin's reign of terror.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D. Written for NEA Service

We frequently refer to the "freedom of the birds" as a sort of utopian hope for the unhampered ability to go wherever we will. We want to do whatever we want, and to be free from human responsibility. We seem to feel that the freedom of the bird is beyond the limits of human and natural law. We speak of this freedom as if we want to enjoy license instead of freedom.

It might be pleasant to rise above our mundane way of life and look with perspective at the world and at the way people live. It would be interesting to disassociate ourselves momentarily from people, but we must always know that we must come back to earth. We must return to people.

When we isolate ourselves for long periods of time we find that we are not happy. Actually we find ourselves so lonely that we develop a feeling of being confined within ourselves. We are definitely frustrated when we lose even one friend.

God created man because of love and the basic need for fellowship. He made man after His own image and gave to man the capacity for love and companionship. Without brotherhood we cannot comprehend human and spiritual freedom.

Probably the most satisfying freedom known to man is the freedom to serve God and fellowmen. We do not desire license which would hurt others. We want freedom of conscience.

Spiritual Healing Accepted by Many Churches

Editor's Note: The news that Queen Juliana of the Netherlands has turned to a faith healer in efforts to restore the sight of her partially blind daughter has stirred up fresh controversy over the place of miraculous cures in modern religion. The following dispatch reports that the attitude of many churches toward spiritual healing has undergone sharp changes in recent years.

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (U)—A strong revival of interest in spiritual healing is underway in many Christian denominations.

Skepticism and embarrassment about this long-neglected phase of the church's traditional ministry is on the wane. More and more churchmen are swinging around to the belief that miraculous cures do occur, even in this age of scientific medicine. And that modern Christians should take a new look at the whole subject.

This attitude is, for the main body of Protestant Christianity, a radical change from the prevailing opinions of a few years ago. While the Roman Catholic Church and some fundamentalist sects have always upheld the validity of faith healing, leading Protestant groups were inclined to soft-pedal or disavow what they regarded as a primitive and unsophisticated belief. Some liberal theologians even sought to explain away the Gospel accounts of Christ's healing miracles.

The new respectability of spiritual healing was reflected in a recent symposium published by the respected quarterly journal, Religion in Life. Four prominent clergymen who participated in the symposium agreed that the evidence for remarkable cures thru prayer is so abundant that the phenomenon must be taken seriously.

"Faith healing can no longer be dismissed with a shrug of the shoulders, a snap judgment, or a clever phrase, either by the church or by the medical profession," said the Rev. John Pitts, minister of the First Welsh Presbyterian Church, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. "There seems to be more than enough evidence to affirm that spiritual healing is a fact."

Cyril C. Richardson, a professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York, emphasized that faith healing does not mean having faith in a particular "healer," nor does it mean persuading yourself that you will be healed.

"The faith required is that in Christ there is revealed the power and wisdom of God. It is God and not we who is the healer," he said.

This point is stressed by many other clergymen, who draw a sharp distinction between bona fide spiritual healing and the "demonstrations" of some self-styled "faith healers."

Anti-Rearmament Forces Carry Japanese Election

TOKYO (UP) — The Socialist Party today rode a wave of Japanese anti-rearmament votes toward apparent victory over the Conservative government's plans to revise the MacArthur "no-war" constitution.

More than 31 million Japanese voted in Sunday's nationwide elections to fill 127 seats in the 250-member House of Councillors, the upper house of the Diet (parliament).

The government of Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama and his Liberal-Democratic Party sought to win the half-dozen extra seats it needed to gain a two-thirds majority in the chamber and start action on its measures to legalize rearmament and "Japanize" other features of the constitution drawn up in 1946 during the occupation. Latest unofficial returns indicated the Conservatives had failed.

Denies Secrecy Used to Cover Pentagon Errors

WASHINGTON (UP) — Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross denied today that secrecy labels are used at the Pentagon "to cover up any wrong-doing."

Ross, called to defend the Defense Department's information policies, told a House government operations subcommittee that the Pentagon withholds information only when required to do so by national security.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), is investigating the alleged suppression of public information by federal agencies.

Ross testified that there is "no precise formula" for information and that in the last analysis that exercise of the individual official's judgment is "all important."

"Sound judgment cannot be legislated or assured by administrative decree," Ross told the subcommittee.

Moss told Ross that the subcommittee is investigating complaints that the Defense Department has restricted information to the public and to Congress "without necessity or justification," that the department has released information "twisted to express a particular viewpoint," and that the department has been following other practices which "restrict or channel the flow of information."

XXVIII

An hour later they were together again and had covered seven of the miles on the return. Looking across the flats toward headquarters they saw a red in the sky, a red that signified the glow of fire. Scalding anger bit into Frank then as he saw Drury lay a quirt to his tired horse.

Drury was thinking now that Ricketty, asleep on his bunk, would be unable to escape the flames. And if the ranch was on fire it wasn't by accident. Norring had struck, and in a way Frank wouldn't have believed.

A mile further they were able to see the flames lacing skyward. The fire had already burned itself pretty low. It had been confined, Frank saw, to the main building, the log house; and Frank felt a swift relief for Ricketty. Had there been a wind no building on the flat would have been spared.

Frank turned to Swenson and the kid riding with him behind the herd. "The old night pasture," he said and motioned with his arm. "Alex, stay with them till we relieve you."

Swenson nodded too and helped the kid swing the string around. Ricketty had drawn the blankets from his bunk and sat huddled in these in the captain's chair beside the window. The rifle they had left with him was lined out across the window sill.

Tod Drury was remarkably changed since relieved of his worry. Truculence shown in his raggy brown face and the hard casing with which he cloaked himself by habit was back. "Don't you know enough to stay in bed?"

"And let Rafter burn to the ground?" Ricketty snorted. He set his raw and battered features toward Tod. "Bad enough he got his chance at the log house before I heard him. If I hadn't got in a shot he'd sure have ruined the barn and bunkhouse too."

"Who was it, Ricketty?" Jean asked. "Milo Hackett?"

"I ain't dead sure. I only saw the back of him moving around in the brush. I reckon my bullet missed him, 'cause I heard his horse crossing the bridge later."

"We'll leave at dawn. I'll have to take Jean with us, but I don't know what to do about Ricketty."

Jean was standing watching the dying flames, her eyes wide as they took in the destruction.

She threw her head back against his chest standing that way with the fiery glow lighting her hair. She had stopped crying and she knew she was finished with that for good. But the hurt was still there.

His arms drew her in. This time the old, dead fires stayed in the past and Janet didn't haunt him. Jean was not like any woman he had ever known. She would not be washed out by time or by any amount of riding, or by misery. This he knew as he drew her to him. Her arms were pulling him closer in return.

She kept her face buried against his chest so he could barely see her expression. But her eyes were closed. The fragrance of her hair was in his nostrils.

"In the morning we'll ride," he promised simply.

She looked at him with a peculiar smile. "Me too, Frank?"

Jack Bamford had given him from one corner of his mouth to the other, that was all.

"Sit down. Sit down, Milo," he invited calmly.

Milo Hackett waved the invitation roughly aside. "You know what they did? Took the horses! You told me to go up there to the pasture. Well, I was too late. They'd set an ambush."

"I know," Norring said mildly. "Shorty stopped by to tell me Tay-hern was shot. I'm sorry -- Doc's still out of town."

Hackett was not much interested in his wounded crewman. He was scowling darkly. Long before he reached Cashtown he had made up his mind he wasn't going to tell about the fire on Rafter C. Let Steve suspect if he wanted, he'd never tell him for sure. He said sourly,

"I rode after that bunch as far as Rafter C. They'd been raided too and the old fellow, Ricketty, was hurt. There wasn't a sound horse on the spread."

"Go on," Norring said, impatiently now.

"Emmett Cash's got them all. He was shoving them along the trail to Yates's place when I lit out for Cashtown."

Hackett read relief in Norring's face. It was almost as though they'd won a victory.

"This is the chance I've waited for, Milo. This will bring Chantry off the fence and line him up on my side, or we'll have a new sheriff very shortly." Norring's face went dark, and then he added, "Milo, you've been having a lot of bad luck lately. It happens to any man once in awhile, but it had better not stay too long with him. Your luck has been no good since the drifter came. He's got to be put out of the way. Have you got a man who won't blunder on this job?"

Hackett felt his blood suddenly leap, his scowl biting deeper into his face. "I don't send anybody to do my chores. I tried it once, and I'll do it next time."

"All right, but don't make another mistake."

Volunteers Do Fine VA Work

WASHINGTON — The Veterans Administration's 176 hospitals and domiciliarys observed the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the VA Voluntary Service in April.

The organization took root on April 15, 1946, to coordinate activities of those who freely give time, effort and money for hospitalized ex-servicemen.

The VA said the volunteers accomplish for the vets what busy professional staffs are unable to do.

An average of 86,000 persons a month, working on a regularly scheduled basis, help in the hospitals. They carry on recreational activities, nursing, rehabilitation, and social service work.

The volunteers served 5,600,000 hours during 12 months just ended. This was a jump of 46 per cent in the number of hours worked 10 years ago. And the VAVS is still expanding.

In recent months the organization announced a new program called "Planning for Patient Discharge." Volunteers assist in smoothing the way back to normal community living for about-to-be-discharged patients.

House Passes $4 Billion Foreign Aid Authorization Bill

By United Press
The four-billion-dollar foreign aid authorization bill whipped through the House without debate today as Congress entered the stretch drive for adjournment. Shortly after the vote, President Eisenhower appealed for a larger program.

The compromise authorization measure, adopted by voice vote, was returned to the Senate where agreement would send it along to the White House for Mr. Eisenhower's signature.

The House then turned to a second bill putting up the money. The Appropriations Committee has chopped 1 1/2 billion dollars out of the President's request and a stiff floor fight was in prospect in both the House and Senate.

Mr. Eisenhower, in an 11th-hour appeal at Gettysburg, warned that peace lies in the balance and the proposed deep cuts would be a "grave mistake."

Four School Districts Discuss Consolidation

Members of the boards of education, patrons and other interested persons from College Heights, Green Hill, Crossroads and Bixler school districts met at the College Heights school last week to discuss the possibility of consolidation.

County Superintendent of Schools Raymond Gardner and Asst. Supt. John Murphy were present and explained the purpose of the meeting. During the meeting courses of study, tax rates, assessed valuations and physical plants were discussed.

Although no definite action was taken, there was much interest and other meetings will probably be held in the near future.

Plunges to Death From Roller Coaster

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N. J. (U.P.)—Marion L. Yoham, 28, New York City, plunged to his death Sunday from a roller coaster at Palisades amusement park.

A park spokesman said Marion, who was riding with his brother, Robert, 21, Lodi, N. J., apparently stood up as the cars reached the crest of a hill, lost his balance and fell.

Marion's body will be sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Yoham, Miami, Fla.

Nixon Confers In Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (U.P.)—U. S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon conferred today with President Iskander Mirza of Pakistan during a brief stopover on the homeward leg of his whirlwind goodwill tour of America's Allies in Asia and the Far East.

Nixon spent about four hours in Karachi. Then he took off for Ankara, Turkey.

The vice president said he had a "very concentrated discussion" with Mirza. He said the talks centered on economic aids and military ties between Pakistan and the United States.

Mirza was the second government leader to confer with Nixon during the day. The vice president held a conference with Premier Pibul Songgram of Thailand earlier in the day at Bangkok.

Nixon flew to Bangkok after a weekend visit to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on the Nationalist island bastion of Formosa. During his stay, Nixon reassured Chiang of continued United States support for Nationalist China. Nationalist Chinese officials were reported considerably heartened by Nixon's visit.

Two Wheels Stolen From Autos at Eldorado

The left rear wheels of two 1956 Pontiacs were stolen in Eldorado Sunday night.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Lyons, who made the investigation, stated the automobiles were owned by the Smith and Reynolds Pontiac Agency, Eldorado, and were parked with other new automobiles on a parking lot across from the agency on Fifth street.

The automobiles apparently were jacked up, the wheels and tires removed, then the cars were lowered and left on the brake drums.

One wheel was red, the other black. The tires, Lyons said, were 7:10 x 15. U. S. Royal white sidewall tubeless.

Officials Blast Air Traffic Control

GRAND CANYON VILLAGE, Ariz. (U.P.)—The nation's air-traffic control system was under fire today in the wake of history's worst commercial plane disaster, now under congressional and Civil Aeronautics Board scrutiny.

David Halperin, chairman of the TWA Central Air Safety Committee of the Airline Pilots Assn., said his group was "fully aware that the basic cause of this accident is directly attributable to the completely inadequate and obsolete air traffic control system."

The apparent collision between a TWA Super Constellation and a United Air Lines DC7 high above scenic rugged Grand Canyon June 30 cost 128 lives.

Funeral services were scheduled today at Flagstaff, Ariz., for 67 of the 70 persons killed in the crash of the TWA plane. About 250 relatives and friends of the victims were expected for the services, which will be conducted by clergymen of the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths.

Meet to Select Keynote Speaker Top Democrats

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Top Democrats huddle today to decide who will deliver the keynote address at the national convention Aug. 13.

At least nine party leaders were under consideration for the duty. The final selection was to be made at an afternoon meeting of the convention and arrangements committee called to order by Democratic Chairman Paul Butler.

Most likely candidates for the job appeared to be Sen. Henry M. Jackson (Wash.) and Sen. Robert S. Kerr (Okla.). Both were said to be acceptable to the groups supporting New York Gov. Averell Harriman and Sen. Estes Kefauver for the presidential nomination.

Other men seen as the possible keynoter were Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee. All three are backing Adlai E. Stevenson's bid for the nomination.

Also mentioned for the keynoting assignment were Govs. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, George Leader of Pennsylvania and Robert Meyner of New Jersey. Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois and Rep. John McCormack House majority leader, of Massachusetts.

Congress Faces Controversial Bills Before It Can Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress moved today into what may be the final two weeks of its current session. But before it adjourns and joins the rush to the political conventions, it faces action on a number of controversial bills.

The House today called up for debate the compromise bill to authorize $4,014,000,000 in foreign aid spending and the related bill to put up $3.4 billion for the program. The appropriation measure is certain to provoke a sharp floor fight.

The Senate put aside legislation in order to eulogize the late Sens. Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.) and Harley M. Kilgore (D-W. Va.). But the compromise foreign aid authorization bill is high on its agenda for the coming week.

Big Legislative Backlog
Congressional leaders anticipating an August adjournment date pointed to the amount of controversial legislation still awaiting Senate and House action as the reason for their pessimism.

The administration's Civil Rights Bill and legislation to authorize federal construction of a high dam at Hells Canyon on the Idaho-Oregon border are almost certain to provoke heated House debate.

Likely to die in the Senate are House-approved bills to raise postal rates and to provide pensions for needy World War I veterans. Also on the Senate "must" list is a House-approved bill to lower the Social Security benefit age for women from 65 to 62 and to permit totally disabled workers to start collecting benefits at age 50. Some Senate compromise in the measure is considered likely.

Sullivan Edges Allen in Ratings
NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan moved back as champ of Sunday night TV, according to the Trendex ratings released today.

Sullivan, the victim of a surprise knockout by NBC-TV's Steve Allen July 1, raked up a 20.8 index Sunday night. Allen scored 14.7.

The score the previous Sunday: Allen—20.2. Sullivan—14.8. Allen, who was supported last week by rock and roll singer Elvis Presley, Sunday night presented Margaret Truman, Vic Damone, Pier Angeli, Jack Palance and singer Gogi Grant on his new NBC-TV variety show.

Sullivan's CBS-TV lineup included Constance Bennett, comic Myron Cohen and French singer Patanchou.

During 1954 Americans ate 8,500,000 hot dogs, or a little more than one per person each week.

Williams, Kaline Spark American Sluggers; Reds Beat Cardinals, Boost Lead

By United Press

The American League's All-Stars flexed their muscles Sunday in a thunderous batting outburst that demonstrated why they're favored to beat the National League in Tuesday's classic.

With Ted Williams and Al Kaline showing the way, the AL's eight starters had a composite record of 26 hits in 52 tries for a .500 average in Sunday's games. The eight NL starters, meanwhile, collected only five hits in 27 tries for a .185 average.

Williams knocked in four runs with a homer, double and single in the first game and drove in the 1,500th run of his career in the nightcap as the Boston Red Sox downed the Baltimore Orioles, 9-0 and 8-4. All-Star first-baseman Mickey Vernon had two hits in six tries and drove in three runs while Baltimore's George Kell went four-for-eight and drove in four runs during the doubleheader.

Sullivan Goes Distance

Frank Sullivan, the only All-Star pitcher to go the distance Sunday, pitched a six-hitter for his eighth win in the first game.

In reading the exchanges recently I found out that—

Dale Cruse, former Cave-in-Rock high school and McKendree college basketball star, will be head basketball and track coach at O'Fallon high school this year.

Cruse was a member of the famed 1950 Cave-in-Rock cage team that captured the fancy of fans throughout the state. The team was known for its speed, shooting ability and ball handling. Cruse was the floor man on the squad.

Don Shroyer, former Carmi high school football coach who accepted the position of head grid coach at Millikin University, has moved from Carmi to Decatur. Shroyer, at Carmi five years, moved into a new home at Decatur this past week.

Southern Illinois University has hired a new gym coach and athletic trainer.

William T. Mead, head gym coach at the University of North Carolina last year, will take over the gym reins at SIU this year. He is a graduate of both Pennsylvania State University and the University of North Carolina.

Gordon Hierwig, the new SIU trainer, is a graduate of Bowling Green University in Ohio. He has been connected with Montana State since 1949.

The football coaching vacancy at Du Quoin high school has been filled with the employment of Guy Burton, 27, coach at Burton, Mo., for the past three years.

Burton is a native of East St. Louis and a graduate of Kirksville, Mo., Teachers College.

Dean Renn, former West Frankfort high school and University of Illinois athlete, will return to his home high school this fall as assistant football and basketball coach and head golf coach.

Renn was a grid and cage star at West Frankfort and varsity first string end at the University of Illinois.

Buddy Peyton, who doubled as a Methodist minister and high school teacher and coach this past winter has resigned from the teaching profession and plans to continue his education for the ministry.

Peyton coached at Thompsonville last year.

He also served a rural Methodist church as pastor and will continue his work in the ministry while completing his college work.

New Fines, Rose Bowl Bans Hit Pacific Schools

SAN FRANCISCO — Pacific Coast Conference schools were warned today to have their "self-examination" reports in the commissioner's hands by next Sunday in the wake of drastic new fines and bans that just about ruined the West's Rose Bowl chances for the next couple of years.

The PCC faculty representatives plastered a $63,400 fine on University of Southern California Sunday, banned the school from the Rose Bowl for two years and just about wrecked the football team by declaring that 42 of its players lose a year of eligibility.

The University of California was slapped with a $25,000 fine because of illegal aid to athletes given by Head Football Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, and put on a year's probation. "Several" athletes faced loss of a year's eligibility.

The house-cleaning isn't through yet. With UCLA out of the bowl for three years and under a $95,000 fine and Washington out for two years and with a $52,000 fine, there still were some other schools who must face the music.

The organization hasn't received the reports yet on Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State and Stanford. Idaho is ineligible for the Rose Bowl.

Legion Outslugs McLeansboro For 14-10 Win

The Harrisburg Legion went over to McLeansboro Sunday afternoon and banged out a 14-10 win over the Pirates of that city.

The Legion blasted out nine extra base blows, including two home runs by Harold Gulley and one round tripper each by Dick Romonosky and Ronnie Ziegler. Frankie Logsdon, John Mills and Romonosky had doubles while Ziegler and Bob Dallas contributed three baggers in the Legion's 15-hit assault. While the Legion was doing all this hitting the Pirates were also getting into the act with homers by Skover and Pollard and doubles by Dietz and Robinson. They connected for 16 safe blows in a losing cause.

Don Wallace started for the Legion and he held on until the sixth when Johnny Mills took over the mound chores. Mills was credited with the win, his first for the Legion.

Maulding was the Pirates' starter and he gave way to Robinson in the sixth. Munsell was the losers' catcher. Ron Ziegler and Dick Romonosky did the receiving for the Legion.

Ziegler, Logsdon, Odle, Gulley, Roper and Romonosky had two hits each for the locals. Stover was the big gun for the Pirates with four for five while Harper, Millenbine, Faulkner and Davis collected two safeties each.

Next Sunday the Legion travels to Nashville, Tenn., where they will meet the Red Caps of that city in a ball game at Sulphur Dell. Practice session again will be Saturday evening at the Town Park at 5 p. m.

Pierce, Friend Opening Hurlers For All-Star Game; Mantle to Start

WASHINGTON — Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will start in Tuesday's All-Star baseball game, and the starting pitchers will be Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mantle's status and the identity of the starting pitchers were cleared up today at a joint American National League news conference.

Earl Hilligan, American League public relations director, said that "as of now" Mantle definitely will start in centerfield for the American League All-Stars. There had been doubt Mantle could start because of an injury to his right knee suffered in the first game of the Fourth of July double-header with the Boston Red Sox.

Hilligan said that Casey Stengel, manager of the American League All-Stars and of the New York Yankees, will watch Mantle warm up before game time.

"If Mickey seems okay, he will go," Hilligan said. "If not, Jimmy Piersall of the Boston Red Sox will start in centerfield. But as of now, Mantle is the starting centerfielder."

Ford Follows Pierce

There also had been some doubt about Friend being able to appear in the All-Star game. But Dave Grote of the National League Service Bureau said that he had talked to Friend by telephone this morning and "he feels fine."

Friend will be the first Pittsburgh pitcher ever to start an All-Star game. He has a record of 11 victories and 7 defeats so far this year.

Pierce, the ace White Sox southpaw, was given the coveted starting assignment for the American League's even though he was knocked out of the box in the sixth inning of Sunday's Chicago-Detroit game.

But Stengel said, through Hilligan, that Pierce is "a great pitcher and I'm not too concerned about what happened yesterday."

Stengel also disclosed that his own No. 1 southpaw, Whitey Ford probably would succeed Pierce on the mound for the American League's and that still another southpaw — Herb Score of the Cleveland Indians — would follow Ford.

Pierce's record this year so far is 13 victories and 3 defeats. The National League counted on a well-rested pitching staff to win the classic at Griffith Stadium. The National League has won five of the last six clashes with the American League.

Manager Walter Alston of the NL squad also wasn't too chipper about the National League's home run blasting, brigade in spacious Griffith Stadium.

"In that big park those long drives might just be long fly balls that will be caught," he said. "You can't predict how one certain game will go but the way our fellows (the National League) played against us (his world champion Brooklyn Dodgers) this season they can give anybody a hell of a battle."

Alston was in the unique position of being the manager of the defending world champions, yet without a single member of his team in the starting lineup.

Five Redlegs Start

The exuberant fans of Cincinnati took care of that, voting in five of their high-flying Redlegs in the balloting in which they were encouraged to vote more than once. The National League starting crew, by mandate of the fans, thus will contain second baseman Johnny Temple, shortstop Roy McMillan, left fielder Frank Robinson, center fielder Gus Bell and catcher Ed Bailey from the Redlegs while the other positions went to third baseman Ken Boyer and right fielder Stan Musial of the Cardinals and first baseman Dale Long of the Pirates.

The American League lineup followed more orthodox lines with all but one of the 1955 All-Star starters being chosen again. They were first baseman Mickey Vernon and left fielder Ted Williams of the Red Sox, catcher Yogi Berra and center fielder Mantle of the Yankees, shortstop Harvey Kuenn and right fielder Al Kaline of the Tigers, second baseman Nellie Fox of the White Sox and third baseman George Kell of the Orioles.

Documents Disclose Controversy by Churchill, FDR Over War Strategy

LONDON (U.P.) — The U. S. landings in southern France during World War II touched off a deep but short-lived difference of opinion between Prime Minister Winston Churchill and U. S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was revealed for the first time today.

Churchill confided in 1944 that he was left "ill-treated and furious" at Mr. Roosevelt's insistence that a new front be opened in southern France at the expense of Allied strength in Italy.

The rift between the two world leaders was revealed in the latest volume of "Grand Strategy," an official British history of World War II written by John Ehrman, holder of a fellowship at Trinity College, Cambridge, who has access to all official sources.

The volume published today covers the period from August, 1943 to September, 1944.

According to the history, Churchill was in favor of pushing the campaign in Italy, but Mr. Roosevelt wanted to open "Operation Anvil" in southern France with troops taken from the Italian theater.

The U. S. President expressed these views in a telegram to the prime minister, who shot back a 1,000-word cable to Mr. Roosevelt.

"We are deeply grieved by your telegram," Churchill said. "The splitting up of the campaign in the Mediterranean into two operations, neither of which can do anything decisive, is, in my humble and respectful opinion, the first major strategic and political error for which we two have to be responsible."

Churchill then quoted Britain's commanding general in Italy as saying that "the ghost of Anvil hangs heavily over the Italian battlefield."

But Mr. Roosevelt stood his ground and replied that he and his chiefs of staff were convinced they should open the southern France campaign.

"I honestly believe that God will be with us as He was in Overlord (the Normandy landings) and in Italy and in North Africa," the U. S. President replied. "I always think of my early geometry: a straight line is the shortest distance between two points."

Ehrman said in his book that Churchill was "furious."

Cpl. James E. Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rodgers, RFD 3, Galatia, was home recently on a 10 day furlough. He is in the Air Force stationed in Molestown, England, where he returned last week.

Special Session May Follow Bonus Meeting

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — The possibility of a special legislative session to place a Korean veterans bonus proposal on the November ballot came to a head today with a meeting of a bonus commission.

Gov. William G. Stratton has said he will call a special session to put a bonus proposal on the ballot if the commission, made up of 10 legislators and 5 private citizens, can reach unanimous agreement on a "reasonable" bonus plan.

Presumably, if even one member of the commission meeting today dissented from its report, there would be no special session.

State Sen. Paul W. Broyles (R-Mount Vernon), chairman of the commission, has said he expects it to reach agreement.

However, State Sen. Everett R. Peters, who as chairman of the State Budgetary Commission is a member of the bonus group, has said he believes it would be better to put off action on a Korean bonus for about two years.

By this time, Peters has said, the state would have paid off more of the debt remaining from the World War II bonus.

Any special session will have to be called quickly. The law requires that publication of the bonus proposal must be made in newspapers in all counties at least three months in advance of the election, that is Aug. 6.

Cost of a Korean bonus has been estimated as high as 75 million dollars. But Stratton has been reported as feeling the bonus cost should not be permitted to exceed 50 million dollars.

State officials have estimated the cost of a special session of the Legislature at about $300,000, plus the cost of publishing notice of the proposal and printing millions of copies of the proposal for distribution to voters.

Just 10 years ago a special session of the Legislature placed the World War II bonus plan on the ballot and the voters approved it and a 385-million-dollar bond issue to pay for it.

The bonds for the World War II bonus are scheduled to be paid off in 1972, with one series scheduled to be paid off by 1960.

About $231,099,000 remains to be paid on the World War II bonus debt.

British Couple Slain by Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (U.P.) — Security forces widened a search today for Cypriot extremists who shot a British couple to death as they headed for an afternoon at the beach Sunday.

A Greek Cypriot tailor was shot dead by a masked man as he left a coffee shop in the village of Dhora early today.

During a search at Paphos, six bombs and a quantity of arms and ammunition was found hidden under a bridge.

G. T. Kaberry, a customs official at Nicosia airport was driving toward the coast on a Sunday outing when extremists halted his car near Famagusta and pumped it full of bullets. His wife was killed instantly, Kaberry died soon after a British patrol arrived.

The attack shattered four days of relative peace on this violence-ridden island. A total of 144 people have been killed since Greek Cypriots began their campaign to end British rule.

The attack was reported soon after British Gen. Sir Gerald Templar, commander of the imperial general staff, arrived here from an official visit to Turkey.

Templar conferred with Turkish leaders in Ankara, reportedly to soften their opposition to a British compromise plan for self-rule on Cyprus.

Former Deputy Sheriff, Woman Found Fatally Shot

PEORIA, Ill. (U.P.) — A former Peoria County deputy sheriff and a 35-year-old woman were found shot to death Sunday in an apparent murder-suicide pact. A .38 caliber revolver was found near the bodies.

However, police did not discount the possibility of murder.

The bodies of Earl Stevens, 42, and Mrs. Sophie Stenger, 35, were found seated on a sofa in her home. A window was found forced open in the home.

Mrs. Stenger's husband, Frank, was picked up for questioning. He was given a paraffin test to determine whether he had fired a gun recently, and released pending results of the test.

... the answers are vital to their families

The answers to three simple questions may help show the difference which would occur in the standard of living of a family if a father were not here. These are the important questions:

Question 1. How much does his family spend monthly on groceries, rent, heat and light, clothes, medical expenses and other necessities?

Question 2. How much would the family spend if the father's expenses were eliminated?

Question 3. How much income would the family receive regularly without his pay check?

If the answer to question 3 is subtracted from question 2, one will get the minimum amount of monthly income a father should be planning to provide to protect his family ... and a good way to do this is through the Metropolitan Family Income Plan.

Every father should consider these important features of the Metropolitan Family Income Plan:

1. Each father can choose the amount of monthly income needed—$100 a month, $200 or more.

2. If he should die at any time within 20 years, the Metropolitan Family Income Plan will provide this income for his family each month for the remainder of the 20 years, and then a cash settlement equal to the face amount of the policy.

3. If the father should live beyond the 20 years, he and his family can have continuing insurance protection for the full face amount of his policy as long as he lives.

Here is a way a father can help solve the problems of protecting his family today. Ask your Metropolitan Representative to give you the details on the Family Income Plan. It is easy to get in touch with him, for ...
